

The FCC furthers its ridiculous rulings. TV and Radio call aren't Advertising??? How foolish are you? The FCC is an appointed body (the first worthless aspect of FCC) and has made ridiculous judgements before, and this is another.

What intelligent reason is there for allowing TV and Radio to "Advertise" their products and stations, while the FCC doesn't think it's advertising? What a joke.

Credit Card companies are already exempt, another ridiculous exemption. They should not supercede our rights to privacy in home buy allowing them to call our homes, especially if we are on the list. Too bad they want to call, that should be business, deal with it.

The calls come to our homes, yet we can't even stop them.

One other aspect that the FCC is archaic, violence is ok, but any hint of sex, sexuality, bare bottom or vulgarity is not. Let's send messages to our nation (and kids), guns, stabbing, beatings, violence, blood is all just fine. Never show any sexual relations, adult content or other aspects of human sexuality.

Most other nations have an mature respect for sex and sexuality on TV. It is not some taboo, something to be ashamed of. I think dealing with it instead of pushing it under the rug is pathetic and puritanical. Violence is so much more damaging to view, but it is allowed constantly.

Reassess your priorities, this is 2003. Wake up!
